Newsome Graduates from National Criminal Justice Command College

Captain Wayne Newsome with NCJCC Director Ms. Cindy Orshek

Captain Wayne Newsome recently graduated from the 7th Session of the University of Virginia National Criminal Justice Command College. The NCJCC is a 10 – week intense training program that is targeted to mid-upper level law enforcement supervisors in state, county, or municipal agencies. The Command College is uniquely designed to provide an integrated, cutting-edge approach to criminal justice education through a framework of leadership and collaboration. Captain Newsome was one of fifteen graduates that were selected from the Commonwealth of Virginia to attend. Their curriculum and topics of instruction included leadership, management issues, forensic science, collaboration and negotiation and legal issues. Captain Newsome joins Captain William “Keith” Early and Lt. Dann Ferguson and Lt. William Anspach as alumni of the program.
