John E. Piotrowski

John Piotrowski is a dedicated community leader and seasoned professional with deep roots in Colonial Heights. Born to Paul and Dianne Piotrowski, John has called the city home his entire life. He is married to Margie Anne Piotrowski, and together they are proud owners of Discovery World Day Care Center, a well-respected business in the heart of Colonial Heights. The couple have two daughters, Sara Elizabeth and Katherine Anne Piotrowski.

John's professional journey began in 1998 as a part-time associate at E. Alvin Small Funeral Homes while he was still in high school. His passion for funeral service led him to pursue higher education at John Tyler Community College, where he earned an Associate of Applied Science Degree in Funeral Service. Shortly after, he became a Licensed Funeral Director and has since worked his way up to Assistant Operations Manager at E. Alvin Small Funeral Homes, where he continues to serve his community. His dedication to public service is also reflected in his appointment to the Virginia Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers by Governor Glenn Youngkin in July 2024.

Beyond his work at the funeral home, John currently serves as Vice-Mayor and has been an active Colonial Heights City Council member since being elected in 2014. He serves on the City Audit Committee and the Senior Citizens Advisory Committee.
